

Long-Term Causes World War I

World War I

We are soldiers. It is a great brotherhood, which adds something of the good-fellowship of the folk-song, of the feeling of solidarity of convicts and of the desperate loyalty to one another of men condemned to death, to a condition of life arising out of the midst of danger, out of the tension and forlornness of death.

Erich Maria Remarque - All Quiet on the Western Front

Causes of War - long term- MAINE

- Militarism - glory of war and military spending
- Alliances: web of treaties to protect themselves
- Imperial tensions- competition for colonies
- Nationalism- many countries torn by tensions of different nationalist groups

Militarism

- ▣ Militarism- the glorification of armed strength and the ideals of war.
- ▣ European nations militarized to protect colonies
- ▣ Militarism led to large sophisticated armies and navies with many new weapons
- ▣ Britain felt its navy had to be the size of the next two largest navies on the European continent
 - When Germany chose to expand its navy, Britain considered it a threat and began an arms race
 - By 1914 Russia had 6 million troops, Germany doubled the size of their army to counter the threat

Causes of War - long term- MAINE

- Militarism - glory of war and military spending
- Alliances: web of treaties to protect themselves
- Imperial tensions- competition for colonies
- Nationalism- many countries torn by tensions of different nationalist groups

System of Alliances

- Imperialism, Militarism and Nationalism all led to a sense that war was inevitable in Europe
- European powers set up alliances to back each other up in case of aggression from another country
- Germany, Austria and Italy- Triple Alliance (Central Powers)
- Russia, France and Britain- Triple Entente (Allies)
- Europe had all of its great economic, imperial powers armed with massive armies who glorified war and sought alliances to maintain or advance their international standings.

EUROPE 1914

Causes of War - long term- MAINE

- Militarism - glory of war and military spending
- Alliances: web of treaties to protect themselves
- Imperial tensions- competition for colonies
- Nationalism- many countries torn by tensions of different nationalist groups

Imperial tension

- To maintain strong economies European powers competed for colonies.
- The race for overseas colonies nearly led to war between European countries

Causes of War - long term- MAINE

- Militarism - glory of war and military spending
- Alliances: web of treaties to protect themselves
- Imperial tensions- competition for colonies
- Nationalism- many countries torn by tensions of different nationalist groups

Nationalism

- Two types: a) pride in one's country b) desire to break away from an oppressing power & be independent
- While nationalism contributed to uniting some nations (Germany and Italy), it also promoted ethnic turmoil in other areas
- Patriotic nationalism combined with militarism created tension and an atmosphere of aggression among European powers

Nationalism con't

- Austria Hungary was made up many different ethnic backgrounds, the Czechs, Slovaks, Poles, Croats, and Serbs all resented Austrian power
- Nationalism increased tensions in prewar Europe

Causes of War - long term- MAINE

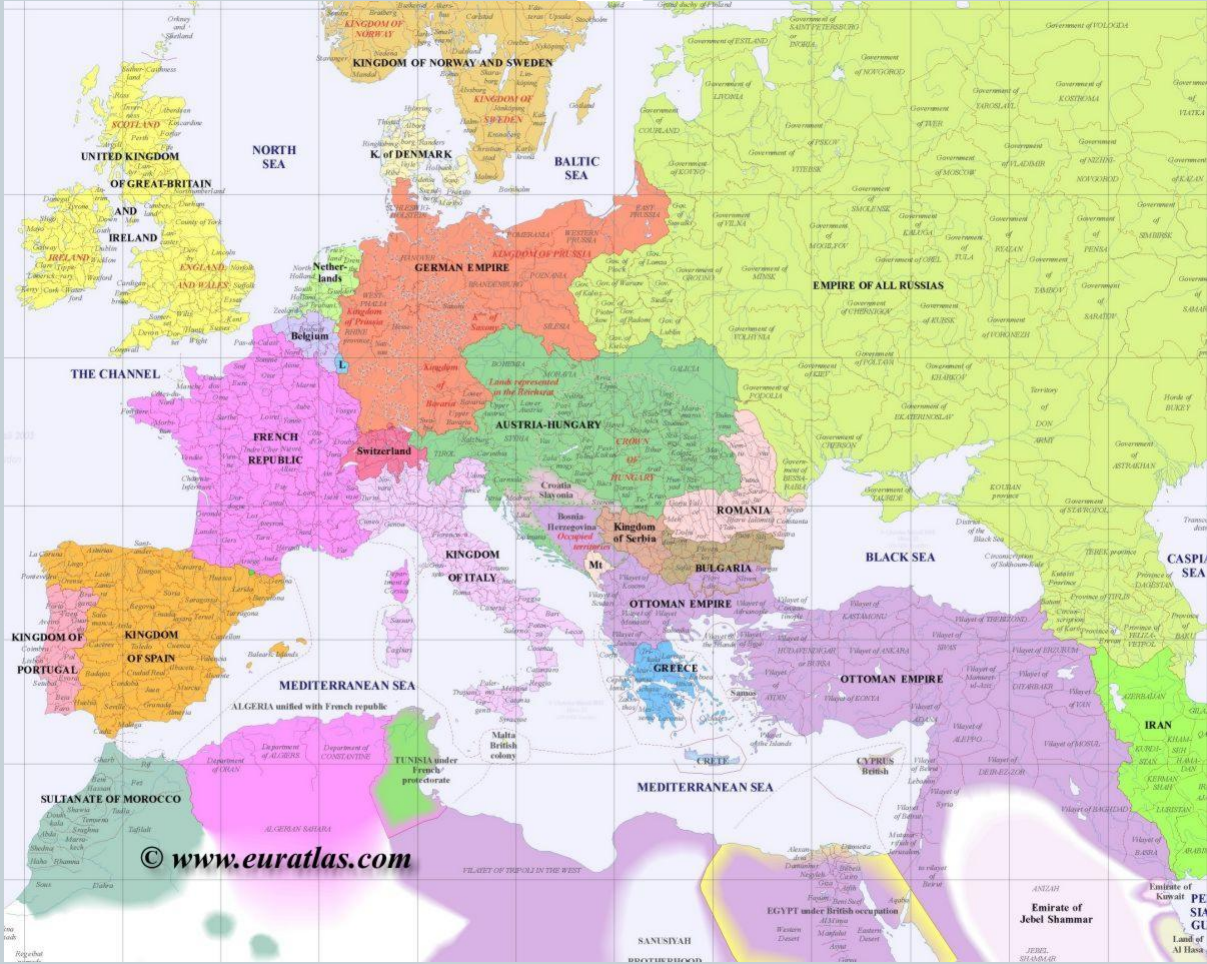

- Militarism - glory of war and military spending
- Alliances: web of treaties to protect themselves
- Imperial tensions- competition for colonies
- Nationalism- many countries torn by tensions of different nationalist groups

Europe at its peak

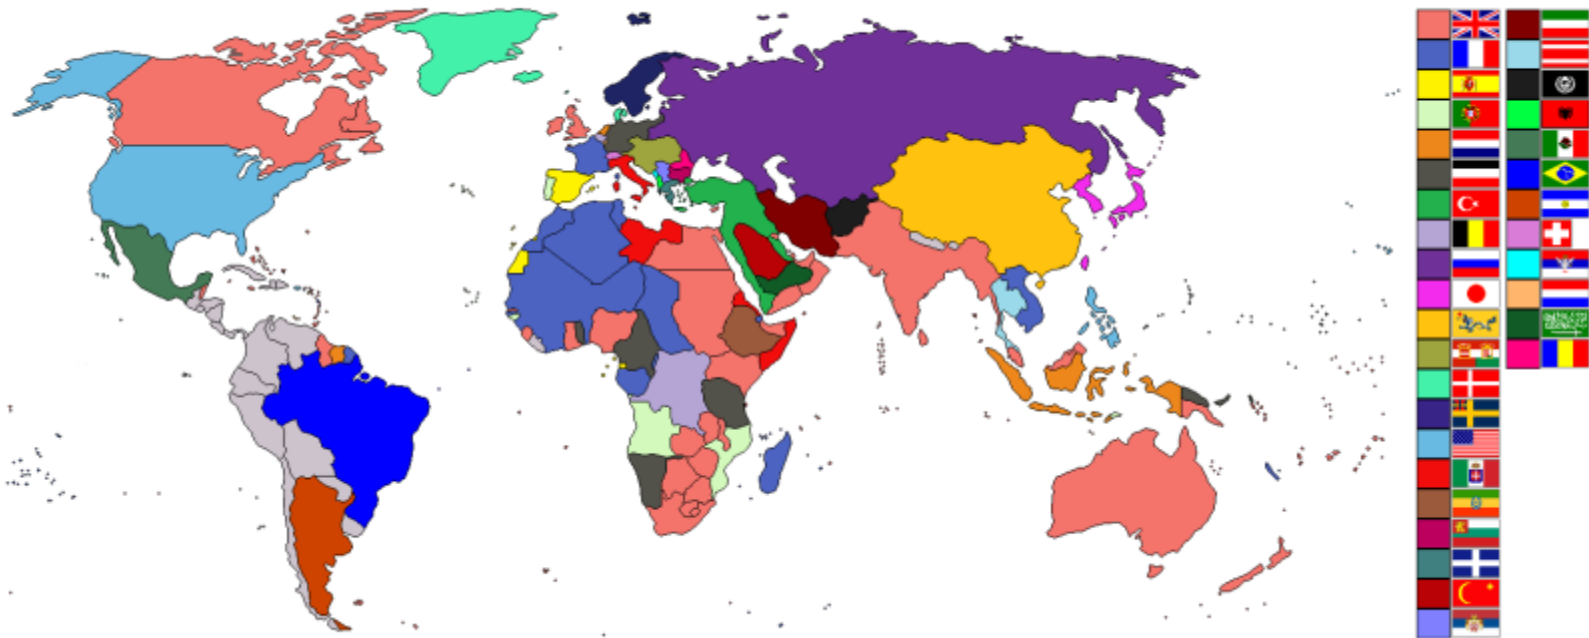

- In 1914 European nations were the most technologically advanced, wealthiest societies on earth
- All aspects of life were affected by modernization
- Modernization created a feeling of superiority in Europe

Europe at its Peak

Europe at its Peak

Archduke Francis Ferdinand

Causes of War - long term- MAINE

- Militarism - glory of war and military spending
- Alliances: web of treaties to protect themselves
- Imperial tensions- competition for colonies
- Nationalism- many countries torn by tensions of different nationalist groups

Crisis Event

- Archduke Francis Ferdinand was the heir to Austria-Hungary's throne
- He was assassinated by a terrorist group, The Black Hand. Their goal was for Bosnian Serbs to join larger Serbia (nationalism)
- The assassination intended to show rebellion against A-H's annexation of Bosnia
- A-H blamed Serbia for encouraging Bosnia Serbs to rebel

SHORT-TERM CAUSES OF WWI

- 1. Russia supported Serbia
- 2. A-H got support from Germany
- 3. Austria issued Serbia an ultimatum—investigation of assassination OR War
- 4. Serbia said yes to all but one of the conditions
- 5. A-H declared war on Serbia
- 6. R., Fr., & G.,--Mobilized

Short-term continued . . .

- 7. G. & R. declared war on each other
 - 8. G. invaded Belgium
 - 9. Britain defended Belgium & declared war on Germany
-
- World War I 1914-1918